

Labour Line

ARTICLES AND NEWS OF NOTE

The Home Line

Flooding destroys Vancouver Chamber Choir's 48-year-old music library

The Vancouver Chamber Choir says a flood has destroyed its nearly half-century-old music library and archives

<https://tinyurl.com/y442drof>

Bargaining Survey

As we head into contract negotiations your Bargaining Committee has put together a survey of 37 questions. The survey should only take about 15 minutes and can be found at:

<https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/391-2019>

Westminster Savings to close unionized branch amid six-month strike

A B.C. credit union is closing its only unionized branch, where the employees have been on a strike since January

<https://tinyurl.com/yx97qxzt>

<https://tinyurl.com/y6xs5v8b>

Court upholds labour board ruling in nursing home case, but strike not allowed for now

A judge has upheld a New Brunswick labour board ruling saying the province's law deeming thousands of nursing home workers essential is unconstitutional, but has delayed the impact of the ruling until 2020

<https://tinyurl.com/y64hsjzt>

<https://tinyurl.com/yxwgcsh2>

Uber co-founder buys record-breaking LA mansion for $72.5m as drivers fight for wages

Uber co-founder Garrett Camp's purchase has drawn the ire of activists and drivers who have long been protesting about Uber's labor practices and advocating for better working conditions

<https://tinyurl.com/y4askpw2>

'Hotels fear us': How Spain's chambermaids are fighting subcontract exploitation

After protesting for years in front of hotels, a group of Spanish chambermaids has scored victories in their struggle to end subcontracting of their services, which leaves them poor and exhausted

<https://tinyurl.com/yy9loxao>